Petition to call election on school bonds revived

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Names of 127 persons on a petition against a county school bond issue originally believed not to be registered voters, have been resubmitted for certification.

Supporters of the petition to force the $5.5 million school bond issue to a vote in general election, said these names had been rejected as missing from the registered voter list but through a painstaking process the actual voter registration numbers had been obtained for 127 of the 247 names rejected.

Darlene Martin, a supporter of the petition, said many dedicated people had spent several hours verifying the voter registration status of these people.

will probably have to meet with Bureau Director Aubrey Rozzell to discuss what kind of partnership the county can form with the state.

"We built our beachfront master plan with the idea that we would join forces. If we want to get any money from the state, we understand that we have to assure that whatever facilities we build, we can operate," Taylor explained.

Trotter advised a meeting between the board and Rozzell to further discuss the project, which after planning stages must receive regional and federal approval for funding.

Two arrested in scheme to take drugs into jail

Two people have been arrested in an investigation stemming from a rumor that someone planned to smuggle marijuana into the Hancock County Jail.

Yarbrough cited a case where he was attempting to assist an oyster truck that got caught on a crossing and tried to signal an oncoming train to stop from a point farther up the tracks.

County school officials to begin architect selection process

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County School Board has scheduled a special meeting Monday to prepare a letter for architects interested in participating in the district's upcoming building program.

In a resolution last week, the board authorized the issuance of a $8.6 million building program which includes construction of a new high school and extensive renovations at all existing facilities.

The board will advise architects in the letter what it expects to be included in a proposal submitted to the school board for the building program.

Although the meeting is scheduled specifically for discussion of the building program, the board is also expected to take action on a recommendation by Superintendent Terrell Randolph for the cancellation of a Sixteenth Section agriculture land lease held by former Board Member Tommy Shaw.

At its regular meeting this week, the board delayed action on the recommendation. The recommendation for cancellation is based on opinions from the Ethics Commission, Attorney General's Office and a continued request from Secretary of State Dick Melpus to renegotiate all Sixteenth Section leases executed prior to the 1973 Reform Act, according to Randolph.

Shaw currently holds a lease on 150 acres for an annual rental of $18.75.

Randolph said the majority of Sixteenth Section leases have been renegotiated to insure a percentage of the fair market value of the land was being paid to the district.

However, Shaw is a former board member and his lease is against the law for at least one year after the end of his term. Shaw resigned last month but his term does not expire until the end of 1988.

According to the amended Mississippi Code of 1972, if Shaw renegotiated for the lease he would be guilty of a misdemeanor and would be fined "a sum equal to double the value of the contract or imprisoned in the county jail not less than one month or more than one year."

The school board could also be held liable.

Newly appointed Board Member Wayne King told the board he believed a lease should be informed prior to the action that their lease was set to be cancelled.

School Board Member Billie Faye Lyons also said she would like an opportunity to talk with Shaw before the board cancelled the lease.

Also at Monday's meeting, the board approved the 1987-88 certified salary schedule to reflect a $1,000 raise from funds recently appropriated by the state legislature.

With the adjustment, the low end of the scale starts with a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree. This starting salary will be $17,161.

At the opposite end of the scale, a teacher with 17 years experience will receive $25,811.

In other business the board:

—Approved the resignation of Kathryn Norton as speech pathologist at Gulfview and Charles

B. Murphy elementary schools effective at the end of the school year.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Renee Barwell as speech therapist for the school district for the 1987-88 school year.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Delaine Ladner as substitute teacher at Hancock North Central Elementary School for the remainder of the school year.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Dora Rockwell as a substitute teacher at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School for the remainder of the school year.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Sherry Perkins and Timothy Hill as substitute janitors at Hancock North Central for the remainder of the school year.

—Approved a request to accept a tuition student in the special education program for the 1987-88 school year at Hancock North Central.

Handolph reported this student has been enrolled as a tuition student for several years. He also said the school district had recently received a letter of appreciation for the student's mother remarking on the accelerated achievement level of the student since his enrollment at Hancock North Central.

—Approved a payment to the Accident Contingent Fund for an additional assessment to the school district in the amount of $1,470.

—Approved a contract with Moore and Powell for the school district 1986 fiscal year audit services.

—Approved cancellation of a Sixteenth Section lease to Annette Stirling for Lot 47, Section 16-4-16 at Stirling's request.

WAYNE KING

—Approved the cancellation of a Sixteenth Section agriculture lease to Aubrey Sanders for 105 acres in Section 17-5-15 at Sanders' request.

—Approved a request to sell surplus school buses.

—Approved a request to publish a notice of budget hearings.

The community is still buzzing over the Bay Area Youth Soccer Boys Under-16 Team who won the state championship in Jackson last weekend.

This is the first state championship title for a Bay-area soccer team, and the first in anything is always the greatest.

Hard work and dedication do pay dividends, and a state championship is a big dividend.

Team coach Paul Montjoy is still riding on 'cloud nine,' even missed his sleep Sunday night.

Our area soccer has grown by leaps in just a few years, and seems to continue growing.

Montjoy has been involved in the soccer development in the area since its beginning, so we can understand his excitement over winning a state championship.

This was a good year for the Bay Area Youth Soccer program when you consider there were a total of nine teams playing in the championship tourney last weekend.

Also the BAYS Girls Under 10 did very well finishing second in the state in their division. They should be commended too.

Over 200 area parents and supporters were in Jackson for the tourney, which helped to spur our teams on to victories.

The big thing about soccer is, every member of a team is given an opportunity of playing, so it is really a team sport.

In addition to the state champions receiving congratulations, we have to also offer congratulations to every member of the Bay Area Youth Soccer league.

The local competition is the reason a team from the area was able to go all the way to being top in the state in their class.

One must also remember many of the players on the championship team have played in the league for many years.

They have received directions from many coaches, and each should be proud of their achievements.

So, we can add very little other than say, congratulations to everyone involved in the Bay Area Youth Soccer program.

The Annual Spaghetti and Meatball Dinner sponsored by Boy Scout Troop 208 will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Friday at the American Legion Home, Green Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis.

The dinner is being prepared under the direction of 'Big John' Rutherford, who hopes there will be a big turnout for the event.

The Scouts use the proceeds from the benefit for many of their activities during the year.

Tickets are for a donation of $3 and are available from Scout Troop 208 members and will also be available at the door.

We hope to see you at the benefit dinner.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has received several calls about illegal cock fights being held in the area.

As most of you know, it is illegal to even attend cock fights, much less be fighting the animals.

The Humane Society is also concerned about the abuse to the animals. The matter is being investigated by the sheriff's department.

LIFE'S A BEACH.

To the victims of a hurricane, life is anything but a beach. If you can't spare some time to help, you ought to be ashamed.

American Red Cross

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—When I first met Sen. Albert Gore Jr. here in February he was wearing a plaid cowboy shirt and talking about his ideas for nuclear arms control while squiring around the livestock arena the prize Black Angus cattle he and his dad raise in Tennessee.

Nobody other than myself seemed to have the feeling that this startlingly handsome young United States Senator might well someday be president of the United States.

Certainly there was no retinue of boosters hanging around him pushing him to run for the presidency, an idea he admitted was in the back of his mind.

Well, Al Gore Jr. was back in town last week and his situation had changed considerably since the last time we met. A neatly cut dark blue suit and red tie had replaced the cattleman's garb and there were people around him keenly interested in his candidacy for the presidency.

Two weeks ago, the 39-year-old Tennessee Democrat had announced that he is in the race for the wide-open Democratic presidential nomination in 1988. His announcement came as something of a surprise since he was thought to be waiting for a chance to be the Democratic hope four or eight years from now.

But the withdrawal of Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia and Sen. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas from the race had left no Southern candidate in the presidential picture, and Gore, with the apparent encouragement of a Washington-based group of Democratic fundraisers, jumped in to the race.

This was Gore's first swing around the South and Southwest. From all indications, the bright young Tennesseean had been hitting the right keys to quickly get into position to become a strong contender for the South's blue ribbon to be handed out next March 8.

That, of course, is the date of the Southwide "super Tuesday" preferential primary in which a dozen to 14 southern states will award delegate votes by secret ballot.

If his Mississippi experience is a good indication, then Gore has caught the imagination of some well-heeled Southern businessmen who have been playing Republican politics for the past eight years of so.

The luncheon put on for Gore to meet some of Jackson's top-flight business community leaders (what some have called the "Capitol Street gang" in state politics) was sponsored by John Palmer, the town's current hottest business property. Palmer founded and heads Mobile Communications Corporation of America, (MCCA) which is now operating in 32 states.

Significantly, Gore did not have to seek out Palmer. Local Gore backers say that Palmer out of the blue contacted Gore several weeks ago and said he was interested in the young Tennesseean seeking the presidency. The luncheon was the outgrowth of that contact.

The fact that Palmer, who has been identified with Republican politics in the state has become attracted to the bright young Democratic presidential hopeful may indicate a shift which is taking place in the Southern business community to re-affiliate with the Democratic Party.

Absent any major shift in party alliances, it may mean in the short run that businessmen see the Democrats winning the White House next time, and some of them are looking for an attractive candidate to support.

Gore considers himself a "mainstream moderate" which should appeal to a good many Southerners. His voting record is given a 65 percent rating by the liberal Americans For Democratic Action (ADA) and 31 per cent by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Recently, Gore's identity has been somewhat threatened by that of his very attractive wife Tipper who has received quite a bit of press of her own from her campaign to clean up language in rock music and recently her book on requiring labelling of materials and television to which children are exposed in our society.

Having a beautiful wife described by the New York Times as an "All-American looking mother of four" shouldn't hurt Gore in the least in the South.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

WE NEED A POSITIVE, AGGRESSIVE TRADE BILL

Even when the House of Representatives means well, it sometimes messes up, and that was the case last week with the trade bill.

The bill passed the House by a wide margin, but earlier in the week, the House had added a very bad amendment which undermines the likelihood of our getting a strong, bipartisan trade bill the President can sign.

For too many years, the Administrations in the White House have not been aggressive enough in making our trading partners deal fairly with us.

Because of their lack of aggressive action, too many countries now have wide trade imbalances with the United States, and they include not just Japan, but also South Korea, Brazil and Canada.

The U.S. trade deficit which reached $170 billion last year is very serious. It is affecting our economy, and it is costing us jobs.

Trade policy has to be administered by the Executive Branch. We must take care that Congress not begin mandating trade policy, but I do feel it is the responsibility of the Congress to create additional authority for the President and his Trade Representative to negotiate from a position of strength with our trading partners.

That is why I voted for a trade bill last year and advocate strong legislation this year coupled with another round of negotiations with our trading partners.

Along with strengthening the Administration's hand in trade negotiations, we need to strengthen ourselves so that we will be in a better position competitively.

We must better train our people to be able to move from one job area to another - for instance, from the manufacture of shoes to high technology equipment. That training requires federal funding.

I also believe we need to pay special attention to our educational system in America to make certain that we are concentrating enough effort in the mathematics and science areas in order to train our citizens to be more productive and competitive.

These provisions are included in the House trade bill.

But the so-called Gephardt Amendment, the bad provision I referred to earlier, goes too far and turns this legislation into punitive, protectionist policy.

That amendment requires countries with large trade surpluses with the U.S. to reduce them by 10 percent a year or face retaliatory tariffs or quotas.

I am not certain we can expect other countries not to retaliate in kind of to just fall into line and do what we tell them in an American-passed trade bill.

The unknown consequences are what make the Gephardt Amendment so dangerous. If the U.S. goes too far in protectionist policy, we are the ones who will lose.

In the end, I thought we missed a good opportunity in the House to keep the trade bill bipartisan and positive, and I voted against it. But I am hopeful that the Senate will take the punitive provisions out and that I will be able to support the trade bill in its final form.

Trade is important, and the United States needs to be aggressive in our trade policy. A strong, positive bill from the Congress, signed by the President, would send a strong message to our trading partners that it is not to their economic advantage for the U.S. to be experiencing difficulties with our trade balance.

United States Senator

Thad Cochran

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) is moving to close a giant loophole in federal law that costs states over a billion dollars a year in lost sales taxes.

Legislation introduced by Cochran would change federal law that currently allows mail order companies to sell their goods in a state without collecting the sales taxes due to the state.

The Senator said the current law is unfair to local retailers who must add state sales tax to the price of their goods, while mail order companies can leave the tax off and sell their goods at lower prices.

In addition, Cochran said it's unfair to states to lose much needed revenues.

"With the increasing use of toll-free telephone numbers and other retail sales marketing techniques, the mail order market has grown from millions of dollars in sales to billions of dollars in sales."

That means more unfair competition for our local retailers and more losses in state tax revenues needed to provide services in the states," Cochran said.

Like many states, Mississippi depends heavily on the general sales tax as a source of state revenue.

Nearly 10 percent of the revenues which go to support education, health, welfare, corrections and the operations of state government comes from the general sales tax.

The National Association of Tax Administrators estimates that 25 percent of all retail sales may soon take place through some sort of interstate transaction. Under this estimate, Mississippi could lose as much as $176 million per year in general fund revenues.

The bill introduced by Cochran authorizes states to require mail order firms to collect the tax at the time of the sale. Mail order companies must collect the tax only if the merchandise ordered is going to the state imposing the tax.

Collections may be imposed only on companies with nationwide sales of $12.5 million, or more than $400,000 in sales in the state levying the tax.

INDUSTRY GRAND OPENING—Ribbon cutting ceremonies were held last week for ConTech Power Systems Electrical located at Hancock County's Port Blount Industrial Park in Anseley. ConTech owners, center from right, Harold Thibodeaux and Ron Vance cut the ribbon with assistance from Baz Oles, far right, Port & Harbor executive director; Libby Miller, far left, Chamber of Commerce executive director; employees, Hancock County Port & Harbor Commissioners, Hancock County and City of Bay St. Louis officials, and Hancock County Chamber of Commerce members. The owners of the new industry with 35 employees expect to double that number in the near future. The company builds, services and installs marine and industrial electrical switch gear, AC-DC meters and generator controls. The company specializes in custom designed variable-speed drives and control systems. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Attorneys named to defend Hancock murder suspect

Former district attorney Albert Nicasie has been appointed to help defend Jeffrey J. Ladner, who is accused of killing two Hancock County women in November.

Circuit Judge James E. Thomas appointed Nicasie to help Public Defender William M. Frisbie.

Also this week, Thomas ordered a psychiatric examination for Ladner to determine his mental competency at the time of the crime and his competency now to help with his own defense.

For two attorneys to be appointed to defend a person charged with capital murder, which involves a murder committed during the commission of another crime and one that carries a potential death penalty, is considered normal procedure.

Over the objections of Assistant District Attorney Jay Golden, Thomas ordered that one copy of psychiatric Henry Morrison's report be given to Ladner's attorneys and that another be sealed until it becomes an issue at the trial.

Ladner, 29, a native of Dedaux community, is accused of shooting Dorothy G. Tassin, 66, and her daughter, Jeannette Holden, 44, on Nov. 11.

The women's bodies were found at their home, a house trailer behind Holden's Brass Anchor Bar on U.S. 90 west of Waveland.

Ladner was arrested Nov. 27 by Jefferson Parish, La., officers at his River Ridge, La. home. He was linked to the murders through jewelry that allegedly belonged to Holden.

Another charge against Ladner for attempted burglary will be held pending the outcome of the murder charges, Thomas said.

Thomas also said that he will probably "consider favorably" Frisbie's request to hold Ladner's trial in September. Golden had asked that the trial be set for July.

Because Ladner has two prior felony convictions, he has been charged as an habitual criminal. As such, if he is convicted and does not receive a death penalty, he will receive a life sentence without parole.

Under current laws, a person who receives a life sentence is usually eligible for parole after about 10 years in prison.

Guilty plea brings probation for teen burglar

A teenager was placed on probation Monday after pleading guilty in Hancock County Circuit Court to one charge of grand larceny and one charge of burglary of an automobile.

The charges against David Scott Perret of Chalmette, La., who will be 18 next week, had been transferred from Youth Court to Circuit Court.

Perret was accused of breaking into a 1980 Toyota pickup truck in July and taking speakers from it. He tried to escape by stealing a motorcycle, but was arrested when he was unable to start it.

Perret could have received a maximum of 12 years in prison, but Assistant District Attorney Jay Golden recommended that he be given a five-year suspended sentence and placed on probation for three years.

Judge James E. Thomas, however, placed Perret on probation for three years and said that if Perret completes probation successfully, he will retain his civil rights and will not have a criminal record.

Thomas also ordered Perret to pay court costs, $350 to the county for public defender fees, $75 to the pickup owner and $25 to the motorcycle owner.

Bay High Seniors to present classic ghost story

The curtain will rise and so will the hair on your neck at 7:30 p.m. Friday when the 1987 Senior Class of Bay High School presents "The Uninvited" in the Bay Junior High auditorium.

Pam Fitzgerald (Jacqueline Wilson) and Roddy (Mark Tyskiewicz), an aspiring playwright, discover and abandoned but charming house in the West of England overlooking the Irish Sea.

The house is Cliff End and they purchase it for a suspiciously low price from crusty Commander Brooke (Ben Smith), the village eccentric.

The reason is quickly apparent. The house has a questionable reputation. Fifteen years earlier a murder may or may not have occurred by the gnarled tree that can be viewed from the parlor window.

Slowly, the Fitzgeralds begin to sense the evil spirit that announces its presence by filling the house with a bone-chilling cold.

The housekeeper (Kim Mitchell) notices that her cat will not enter the nursery where the sound of a weeping woman adds to the tense atmosphere and the scent of a flowery, exotic perfume called mimosa comes and goes.

The village doctor (James Travira), the local gossip (Sherri Wharton) and a former governess (Keeli Wrenstend) visit with strange stories of the beautiful Mary Merideth who once lived in the house and the unstable Carmel who posed for a painting that destroyed her.

With the help of Stella (Liza Cook), Mary's daughter, a beautiful girl whose mysterious birth is the puzzle's key, and a seance arranged by Wendy (Stacen Ladner), an actress friend of the Fitzgeralds, Cliff End is forced to reveal its darkest secrets.

The action eventually builds to a truly terrifying climax when the ghost is discovered to be not only real, but dangerous.

Student director of the play is Missy Duncan and the director is Mike Hamm.

Molpus to seek reelection

Secretary of State Dick Molpus emphasized his record of accomplishments and unveiled his vision for the future in announcing his candidacy for re-election Tuesday.

"As we look at the months and years past, we point to our accomplishments with justifiable pride," said Molpus. "But we look also to the future with a vision."

Outlining five primary successes of his administration, Molpus cited a vigorous Sixteenth Section Land Reform program that will generate millions of dollars for Mississippi school children.

"When I took office, over a third of all leases were for 25 cents per acre or less," he said. "By enforcing the law requiring that Sixteenth Section Land be leased at a fair value, we have opened the door to a valuable resource for our public schools."

Additional revenues are being realized, he said, through the reorganization of the Secretary of State's office that transformed it from a $200,000 revenue drain of tax dollars to an $800,000 profit-producer for the state's General Fund.

Molpus also pointed out that his office was the leader in the development of legislative reform packages for election and business laws. "The updated election laws will mean enhanced voter registration opportunities, a longer voting day, greater accessibility to the polls for elderly and handicapped voters and better trained election officials," he said. "The new business laws will enable Mississippi business people to operate in a commercial environment appropriate for the end of the 20th century."

In addition, Molpus said an emphasis on No Pass/No Play, adequate textbook funding, full-funding of the Education Reform Act of 1982 and increasing the age for compulsory attendance has made his office a leading advocate of educational improvements.

Molpus pledged to continue the work he has begun, while generating new and results-oriented ideas. Included will be continued efforts in Sixteenth Section Land reform, an annual return of at least $800,000 in profits from the Secretary of State's office, increased voter participation, and stronger law enforcement efforts to prevent unscrupulous operators from selling worthless securities to elderly and vulnerable citizens.

"I have loved my last seven years of public service," Molpus concluded. "I have tried to make life a little more decent and humane in our state. There have been some satisfying successes, but, as we all know, the challenges remain."

Alderman agree with zoning board on Perniciaro, Washington protests

BY DENA BERNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen has agreed with the city's zoning board in two cases where neighbors have protested against businesses.

In one case, the business has already been established but, as Board Attorney Lucien Gex told the aldermen Tuesday night, does not comply with the zoning of the property being used.

The property is being used for a junkyard, Gex stated, which does not fit into the Commercial-3 classification that owner Michael Perniciaro sought and received from the city last year.

Perniciaro has contended that the cars on the property are merely being stored until they can be sold.

Charles Johnson, whose property meets Perniciaro's, asked last week for a clarification of the zoning because he contends the lots are used for "a junkyard, the nearest junkyard you ever saw, because it has a nice fence, the grass is mowed and the cars are parked in nice rows, but it's still a junkyard."

Perniciaro's original plans were for an auto repair shop, which Gex said is permissible under a C-3 zoning. Also permitted is auto sales, but Gex said Perniciaro's business does not qualify as auto sales because most of the cars are inoperable.

He said Perniciaro, who has received a notice of noncompliance, may appeal the decision to the zoning board.

Also objecting to Perniciaro's business was the Washingtons, who own the property and called for fairness.

"If you're planning to shut Mike down, you better shut down several other businesses I can tell you about. They're all equally as bad as some of them," said the Washingtons, who have been there long enough to fall under a grandfather clause," she stated.

Ward I Alderman Barbara Rappold agreed, stating, "We want to take care of the whole problem."

The city has been working for several months to revise its zoning ordinance and should be able to take care of most noncompliance problems once that project is completed, Mayor John Longo Jr. said.

The city's building inspector will serve anyone found to be in noncompliance with a citation and the matter can be taken to city court if the property owner does not correct the problem by a specified deadline.

Discussion of the proposed revision is expected "no later than our first June meeting," he added.

The aldermen also voted in agreement with the zoning board in denying a zoning change for a proposed sweet shop and gameroom at the old Welch's Grocery site on Herilhey Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Washington had requested that the property be given back its commercial zoning, stating that they believed such a business would give neighborhood children a place to go.

The store was zoned commercial under a grandfather clause and the property had gone back to residential after the business remained unoccupied for six months.

The zoning board had received petitions both for and against the business, Longo said.

However, the aldermen expressed concern that granting a commercial zoning for the site could cause future problems if the proposed business does not remain there, allowing something less desirable in a residential neighborhood to be established.

Later in the meeting, Ward Three Alderman Louis Smolensky asked the board to find out if some type of grant funds are available for establishment of youth centers in the city.

He said centers are needed in several areas where there is a large youth population, particularly for teenagers.

In other business Tuesday, the aldermen:

—Heard a report from Longo regarding plans to allow Coastal Family Health Centers to renovate and use part of Waveland Civic Center under a contract that would prohibit the clinic from providing abortions or dental work;

—Agreed to readvertise for sale of surplus fire and police department vehicles;

—Proclaimed May 3-9 Be Kind to Animals Week; and —Appointed Phillip Lagasse to the Hancock County Human Resources Council.

The board meets again at 7:30 p.m. May 20.

Band-Aides constitution rules out parent meeting

BY DENA BISNETTE

A clause in a band support group's constitution is being cited as cause for cancellation of a meeting for parents concerned about teacher nonreemployment procedures in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

According to a news release from the officers of the Tiger Pride Band-Aides, the Monday night meeting was called by concerned citizens rather than the band parents' organization, as had been previously announced.

The topic expected to be discussed was the school board's handling of nonreemployment hearings for several of the district's teachers whose contracts were not extended for the 1987-88 school year.

Those teachers include band director Lana Jones, who took the school board to Federal Court last week in an effort to obtain a temporary restraining order that would have kept the board from acting as hearing officers.

Her attorney, John Deakle, had contended that the board could not render a fair and impartial final decision after having made the initial decision not to reemploy Jones.

The temporary restraining order was denied April 29 by Judge Lansing Mitchell.

Board Attorney Lucien Cox said a second school board hearing for Jones has been tentatively set for 6 p.m. May 14.

The Band-aides officers stated in their release that their organization "is not associated with the meeting."

"The Band Aides Association is not allowed, by its constitution, to become involved in partisan interests. Further, the meeting... is open to the public."

"However, the association is limited to parents of students participating in the association's activities or others who will further the purposes of the association."

At a special meeting Sunday, "the consensus of the officers was to cancel any Band-Aides Association involvement."

About 12 people showed up at the Hancock County Fairgrounds Monday for the meeting, then left after 20 minutes when no one arrived with a key to the building.

Two copies of the Band-Aides officers' statement were posted at the door of the building.

Bay council to begin garbage collection contract negotiations

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Bay St. Louis city officials are planning to meet with Gulf Coast Waste representatives to begin negotiations for contract renewal for garbage collection services.

A tentative meeting is scheduled for May 12.

Although there are several months left in the current contract with Gulf Coast Waste, Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. recommended Tuesday at a city council meeting, negotiations begin as soon as possible.

Frankiewicz believes it is necessary to move ahead with negotiations because Gulf Coast Waste is considering relocating which will allow another company interested in the garbage company's Third Street location to move in.

The new company is also considering purchasing the nearby city-owned Webb Center, which needs renovations. City officials have already determined are not economically feasible at this time.

Also at the meeting the council discussed and reviewed a cost comparison chart for many cities on the Gulf Coast.

City Clerk Edward Favre presented the chart which revealed Bay St. Louis currently has the second lowest cost per customer of all areas checked.

The prices were compared with those paid by Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gulfport, Biloxi, Piquette and Harrison County.

The lowest price is paid by Solid Waste Disposal District which includes Gulfport, Biloxi and Harrison County and is based on a $9,000 customer contract.

Bay St. Louis has less than 2,000 customers.

In other business at the meeting, the council heard a request for help in "getting our streets fixed" from Gerakline Lang, president of Concerned Citizens of Hancock County. Lang cited problems with various city streets including pot holes, trash that needs to be picked up, blind corners and fence rows covered with vines, creating hazards to drivers.

The council agreed to check on the various problems and take whatever possible corrective measures.

A recommendation by the city's Board of Adjustments to allow Hancock Insurance to use a temporary structure, while renovations on its offices are being completed.

The council took under advisement a recommendation to purchase an airboat for the city's sewage lagoon.

Purchase of the $5,700 airboat had been recommended by the Waveland Regional Wastewater District for use in the shallow areas of the lagoon where algae grows.

Councilman John Wilkerson said the city has been using a small boat with a propeller for 20 years to do this job and should continue for the remaining three years the lagoon is expected to be in use.

Lisa Coward, council president, said if the city was going to purchase a boat she preferred it to be a larger boat that could be used as a rescue boat if necessary.

Frankiewicz said other methods to solve the problem including the use of chemicals and to fill in the shallow areas would probably be much more expensive than purchasing a boat for that purpose.

The council agreed the matter needed further investigation and requested Frankiewicz to talk to boating authorities on the best and most economical boat which could do the job.

Councilmembers also voted to authorize Frankiewicz to execute an agreement with wastewater authorities for the use of city rights-of-way for the installation of a county sewer line.

HELLO! I'm The Sea Coast Echo. Most folks know me by my nick-name "The ECHO". (Echo - that's mountain talk for hot air that bounces back).

I've been hanging around these parts, Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Hancock County for quite a long time. I am 96-years old this year.

I've visited with most all of you in your home from time to time and some of you twice a week. Can't call all of your names, but I know most of you from the touch of your hands and that hungry look in your eyes.

See my friends, I'm your local news newspaper. My visiting days are Thursday and Sunday. I bring vital information and advertising of high import to every citizen in Hancock County, grown-ups and little tots alike.

I am a messenger boy for the business folks. They hire me to do the job of the town crier (that's a poor fella who used to run around the streets exercising his vocal chords, screaming out the daily news for all he was worth). My Bosses make it easy for me. They make sure that I am going to hang around for a while, so they smear me up with a bunch, and I mean a bunch of all those different colors. I really rub off on you! Takes me a while to get primed, but I get on my soapbox twice a week to gently tell you 'bout what's been going on around town. Then I bring you the best prices on vittles, soda pop, clothes, other folks' junk (some-a-us calls them treasures), new-fangled eating called hamburgers (ain't found no ham in the fust one) and pizza pies (a big flapjack with a big glob of goo and baloney on top), and just a whole lotta other things that you just gotta have. Shucks, they're nice to have even if you don't gotta have 'em.

Don't cost much to get me to come around your house. All you gotta do is send my Big Boss 16 of those green bills with President Washington's pitcher on it and I'll come visiting you two times a week real soon.

Seriously folks, SUBSCRIBE TODAY! If you live in my home delivery area, I'll be there every Thursday and Sunday morning. For those outside the area in Hancock County, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Perkinston, and Piquette, I'll usually be there on Thursday and Monday with your U. S. Mail.

You can't beat this deal anywhere in town. For just $16.00 you get 102 issues of The ECHO. That's only 15.69 cents a copy. Best deal in town!

is particularly concerned about the Nicholson Avenue crossing. The slope going up to the tracks is "exceptionally high," he said, and tractor-trailer trucks tend to snag their undercarriages on the tracks frequently.

The mayor said he has had first-hand experience with the matter because such trucks serve his Central Avenue business, Southern Frosted Foods.

In addition, the nearby Alcan Cable site in Bay St. Louis, also on Central, has had problems with trucks coming from or going to US-90 by Nicholson.

The city has been trying to find funding to correct the problem because all estimates on the work have so far been unresponsive. He has asked the railroad for assistance but the railroad asked Metcalfe if he could speed the processing of the request.

First championship title

Hurricanes blow away state foes

The Bay Area Youth Soccer Boys Under-16 Hurricanes captured first place in the Mississippi Youth Soccer Association State Championship Tournament in Jackson this past weekend.

This is the first time that a BAYS team has earned a state championship title.

The Hurricanes faced Northeast Jackson in the fourth and final game, winning 3-2 in a tension-filled shoot out which followed two scoreless 15-minute overtime periods.

The game was interrupted by lightning and then resumed and finished in a steady downpour.

At the end of regulation play the score was tied 1-1.

The Hurricanes' one goal was scored on a header by Alan Schott who received the pass directly in front of the goal from halfback Richard Gleber.

Scott Necaise, Kevin Edwards, and Scott Heitzmann each scored for the Hurricanes. Two of the Northeast Jackson players had scored as the final shooter for the team stepped up to shoot.

If he made the shot against Hurricane goalie Micah Necaise, the score would once again be tied, and a second shoot out would be held.

The extremely well-placed shot was at ground level to Necaise's left, who deflected it with his foot away from the goal.

The game ended 3-2 in favor of the Hurricanes who were awarded their First Place ribbons by Tournament Director Larry Whiting.

The Hurricanes were undefeated throughout tournament play, winning three preliminary games in their bracket against Starkville, Vicksburg, and Brandon.

Coach Paul Montjoy noted outstanding defense by the team in spite of loss of starting player Ross Bonura in the game before the championship match due to torn knee ligaments.

Bonura returned to the field in a leg brace and on crutches to cheer his team on to victory.

Blue Angels finish second in soccer championship

Mason's Exxon Blue Angels, Bay Area Youth Soccer Girls under 10 Team, placed second in the Mississippi State Recreational Championship held May 2-3 in Jackson.

They are the first girls team from the Bay area to finish in the championship bracket and to bring home state honors.

With only six regular season wins, the Angels, who could definitely be called the Cinderella team, went into the District Tournament and finished as runner-up champs, and went on from there to place second in the state championship playoffs.

In their first game of the state tournament they defeated the Tupelo Rainbows 4-1.

The score was 0-0 at half time, then in the beginning of the second half, the Blue Angels offense came to life and scored two quick goals.

Julie Heitzmann scored the first goal, followed by Nicole Krost.

Gwyn Krost, and Suzanne Reid, all assisted by excellent passing from Ellen Felder, Jennifer Debenport, Sara Smolensky, and Rachael Fedele.

With this first win, the Blue Angels were fired up for their second game against the Vicksburg Big Bucks that afternoon.

The Blue Angels beat the Big Bucks in the action-packed, mostly defensive game by 1-0.

Outstanding defensive plays were made by Sharon Bradley, Marlon Labat, Kellie Murray, Mary West and goalie, Lindy Heitzmann.

In the last three minutes of the game, Julie Heitzmann fired a shot that found its way into the goal for the only point of the game giving the Blue Angels their second win of the tournament.

In their third game of play, the Angels tied the Southwest Rankin Soccer League Boppers 2-2. This tie put the Angels into the Championship Playoffs.

The opening kick-off of the game by Sharon Bradley, turned into a score when the Boppers goalie couldn't handle the ball and it went into the net.

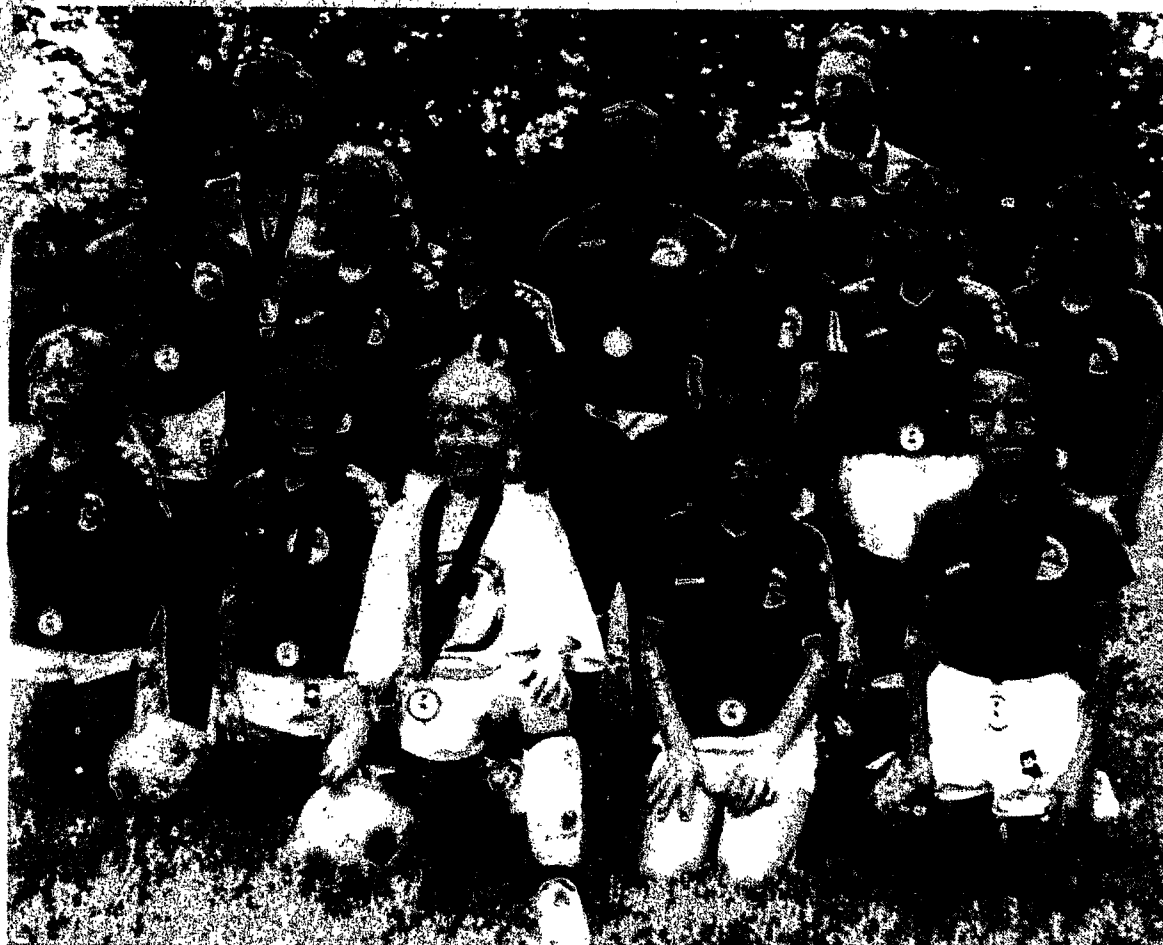

The second goal was also scored by Sharon Bradley on a direct free kick from mid-field.

The Blue Angels were defeated by the Gulfport Golden Girls in the Championship game. Sharon Bradley scored the only point for the Angels.

Immediately after the championship game, Coach Jeff Debenport, Assistant Coach Virginia Felder and the team were presented with medallions by MYSA Vice-President Larry Whiting.

Debenport stated, "The reason the girls went so far in the tournament was due to a dominating defense and a will to win by the entire team."

Team members who could not travel to the state competition were Sara Mason, Lullie Phillips and Jeni Clack.

Bay High doubles teams finish among top four

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay Senior High Tennis team has finished in the top four of 26 teams in state doubles competition.

According to Coach Michael Ladner, the boys doubles team of Kevin Ladner and Greg Ladner won three matches to qualify for state semi-finals in Jackson before being eliminated by Mendenhall.

Mendenhall, which had not lost a set all year with a 13-0 record in match play, defeated the Tigers 6-3 in the first set, lost the second set 6-4 and won the third with a 6-0 score.

In qualifying matches, the boys team scored 7-6 in the first set against Leeland, 7-5 in a tiebreaker, 4-6 in the second set and 6-4 in the third.

The mixed doubles team, consisting of Janelle Mallini and Matthew Cameron, was eliminated in the semifinals by defending state champion Bogota with a score of 6-4 in each of two sets.

In qualifying matches, the Tigers mixed doubles team had defeated Weston in the first round, scoring 6-4 in each of two sets; Columbia 6-1, 3-6 and 6-1 in the second; and Jackson Eastside 6-3 and 6-2 in the third.

Also competing was a boys singles player from Bay High, sophomore Jim Moore.

"I knew he was young but we tried him and I was pleased. He gave a good effort," Coach Ladner said.

A girls singles entry, sophomore Jennifer Proulx, was scheduled to compete but was unable to participate in the tournament due to illness.

The coach said Bay High scored a total of six points in the competition. Corinth, the overall state champion for the 3-A schools division, scored 17 points.

Striped bass stocking program continues

The Anadromous Fisheries Section of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory has just received 708,000 one day old striped bass fry from the Marion Fish Hatchery, Marion, Alabama.

Supported by a joint Mississippi-Alabama research grant from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the baby stripers will be reared at GCRL until they are two inches in length when they will be transferred to the Claude F. Petet Mariculture Center in Gulf Shore, Ala. for further growth.

When they reach a length of four to six inches, they will be harvested, tagged and one-half of the crop will be released in the Biloxi drainage system. The remaining half will be released in Alabama waters.

The tags bear the name, address and phone number of the Laboratory and carries the hope that fishermen will report their catch to the Laboratory.

"The code on the tag will allow us to determine when and where each fish was released as well as where it was caught," said Larry Nicholson, fishery biologist in charge of the project.

"In addition, we will be able to determine the amount of growth the fish has undergone in the natural environment, from the time of release to time of capture," he said.

"This is a continuing effort to reestablish the striped bass as a viable, self-perpetuating fishery on the Mississippi Gulf Coast," said Nicholson.

"Our efforts to date have produced a strong fishery that is now enjoyed by Mississippi recreational fishermen even to the point of including the striped bass as a category in the annual fishing rodeos. However, we have not yet achieved our ultimate goal of producing a population that reproduces itself in the wild," he said.

Nicholson said that every fisherman that catches striped bass will take the time to report this information to us in order that we can determine the success of our stocking efforts and the impact it has on reestablishing the population.

Diamondhead boaters party for Derby

A Derby Day party was held Saturday, May 2 starting at 2 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the Diamondhead Inn.

Sixty-two boaters drank mint juleps, ate, and had fun.

The grand prize was won by Frank Jernova.

Musical entertainment was provided by Nancy and Jerry Skyles and Lou Lamendola.

The next meeting will be June 13, a French picnic scheduled at Chateau Finley starting at 3:30 p.m.

French food and drink and a lovely mademoiselle playing the accordion and leading singing will be featured. Guests arrive by land or sea. If traveling by sea, watch for the Eiffel Tower.

Through the generosity of the Diamondhead Community Association, both channels leading from the Jordan River to the Diamondhead Marina are now well marked.

SPORTS LINE

By Jim Stallworth

The instant replay camera spent a controversial year in the National Football League, but it seems to have withstood the storm and will be back this season. Now the other sports are considering the possibility of implementing a video check system. In some sports, it will work; but in others it is clearly a mistake.

The National Hockey League considered having the camera for its playoffs this year, but the planning and expenses were never quite ironed out by season's end. They may, however, have it next season. Admittedly, the NHL needs the camera to handle the goal or no goal situations that arise during the season. The action on the ice is too fast for the human eye to catch all of the time. A little electronic help when needed wouldn't hurt.

Major League Baseball, on the other hand, would be making a mistake by bringing in a replay camera. Yes, there are certain situations when it would help the close-play-at-the-plate or the tag-and-catch on the double play, but overall the replay rule would complicate the game. Sooner or later, managers and players would want to consult the camera for balls and strikes and no one needs that peril hanging in the pressbox.

Basketball also would not benefit from the instant replay. Some argue that last second shots and three-point shots are some of the calls that officials are missing, and that the camera could correct some missed calls. Most say the officials make as good ones. Of course, they are entitled to miss a few—something called the "human factor." The fact is, however, that the League would opt to bring in another official before it would employ the instant replay rule.

Every sport will probably implement some sort of video system in the future, but the process will be gradual. As late as last year, not one major league sport had a full-time instant replay camera.

Rigging plastic worms

In 1985, Jack Chancellor put the "do-nothing" worm in headlines. Chancellor, member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff, knew that plastic worms catch fish—and plenty of them, enough to win the $50,000 first-place of the Bass Master Classic that year!

Just over a year later, Charlie Murphy's "dead wormin'" technique won him the Florida Invitational in November 1986. Murphy outfished 294 other anglers for the first-place purse of $32,000.

There are many names for different styles of rigging a plastic worm. But the two most popular are Texas style and Carolina style, according to Rodney Huey at Mann's Bait Company.

Texas style rigging is for weedless use and enables the bass enthusiast to penetrate heavy cover that attracts bass. Thread a bullet sinker on your line with the cone facing away from the hook, which is tied on next.

If a six-inch worm is being used, a 2/0 or 3/0 hook is recommended. Thread the point of the hook into the center of the worm's head for about 1/4-inch, then bring it out.

Slide the worm up the hook shank to the eye, then bend the worm slightly as you insert the hook point into the sex band. When you straighten out the bend, the hook is pushed almost completely through the worm making the worm straight. This style of rigging is good for hopping, crawling and sliding over brush and stumps.

The second popular rigging method, according to Huey at Mann's Bait Company, is Carolina style. The benefit of this style allows the worm to float or swim off the bottom.

Here, a barrel swivel is used up the line to keep the sinker well ahead of the worm, which is positioned on the hook exactly like the Texas rig.

However, about 10-20 inches of line is tied between the hook and the swivel, with the sinker threaded on the main line above. When retrieved through the water, the Carolina rig places the worm higher and it swims over weeds and brush. The worm doesn't drag the bottom since the sinker isn't at its head.

Of course, if underwater snags aren't a problem rig your worm with an exposed hook. It goes without saying that your hooks must be sharp for quick penetration of the bass' mouth area.

Jack Chancellor's "Do-Nothing Worm" is comprised of a four- or five-inch worm with two small crappie-like hooks on a swivel, which is connected to a four-foot leader. Between the leader and the line is a one-ounce slip sinker and a plastic bead.

There is one word of caution about using a worm weight. According to Dr. N.E. Perret Jr. in the February 1987 issue of Bassmaster magazine, "care must be taken when pulling against a Texas-rigged worm—or any lure, actually—that is snagged on or near the surface." With the elasticity of the line, the worm weight or lure becomes a projectile capable of penetrating any part of your body just like a bullet!

Having the right propeller can make a world of difference in the performance of any bass boat, especially if you're running with a full tournament load.

The prop features a combination, "over-through" exhaust design that permits part of the engine exhaust to vent through the propeller hub and part to vent over the hub. The design provides superior acceleration at low and mid-range speeds with top-end performance close to that of the OMC Raker three-blade propeller.

Special evening program offered at Gulf Islands

Mississippi District of Gulf Islands National Seashore, in coordination with the Stars Planetarium Friday at 8 p.m. will host an evening program, "Spring Review of the Evening Skies."

Superintendent Jerry A. Eubanks invites the public to join in an evening of viewing the stars that have guided mariners over the centuries. The program will be located at the public boat ramp area on Davis Bayou of Gulf Islands National Seashore in Ocean Springs.

Please bring telescopes or binoculars and something to sit on. Ms. Regina Kates, director of the Stars Planetarium since 1982, will lead participants in this survey of the spring constellations and demonstrate the use of an 8-inch telescope.

"This program is free of charge and open to the public, and we hope that everyone will be able to take advantage of this opportunity to learn more about the stars and planets," said Eubanks.

In the event of rain the program will be presented on Saturday at 8 p.m. For more information on this and other interpretive activities available through the Visitor Center at Davis Bayou, please call (801) 875-0057.

WORD WISE

Q. My husband and I enjoy playing tennis, which is ironic because our usual score is "love-all." I've always wondered why the word love is used to designate a "no score" in a tennis match. Any clues?

A. In tennis, love is a score of zero, and as you know, the number zero is shaped like an egg (0). Tennis originated in France where the word for egg is l'oeuf. The English had trouble with l'oeuf, so the term was modified to a more familiar one.

LIFE'S LITTLE UPS AND DOWNS

Do your children tell you everything? If they have taken a spill, fallen off a bike, or injured themselves playing football, you may be the last to know. That's why it's important to give your children a Chiropractic Checkup regularly. Many times, untreated childhood accidents turn into spinal distortions that may not show up for months or years. North Bay lists science fair winners

SCIENCE FAIR—North Bay Elementary School teacher Bonnie Cuevas places a ribbon on a winning science fair project. There were many exhibits and approximately 30 winners were also entered in regional competition. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Two North Bay Elementary School students are winners in the Region VI Science Fair.

Alysia Wilkinson won third place and Relah Strom won fourth place. They are both in the third grade.

Many students competed in the school's science fair this year. Competition judges said so many of the exhibits were good that it was hard to choose the winners.

First grade winners on the local level are Jessica Boston, second place and Brent Jordan, third place.

George Piazza, a second grade student, won second place for his exhibit.

First place winners in the third grade are Jared Freeman, Tony Moton, Kristy Smith, Relah Strom and Alysia Wilkinson.

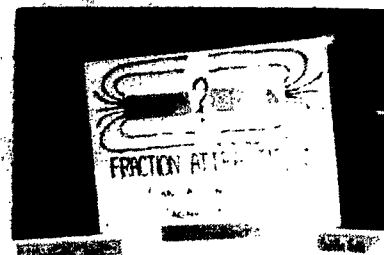

Other third grade winners are Nick Saucier and Desarae Swilley, second place; Melissa Bryan, Donald Cuevas, Donald Gaines and Charlana Latino, third place; and Yvette Buehler, Randall Knight, Keene Rauxet, April Schmalfeldt and Corinn Thomas, honorable mention.

Chad Allison, Christopher Boston, Tina Carver Brenton Kelley and Matthew Thomas are the first place fourth grade winners.

Second place winners in the fourth grade are Allen Alliston, Randy Brou, Jessica Compretta, Abrian Flores, Erin Moon and Kellie Zimmerman.

Third place fourth grade winners are Corey Favre, Natalie Smith, Honey Spoon and Amy Yarborough.

Fourth grade students Patrick Barber, Frederick Bell, Lois Mayfield, Nathan Middleton, Nicole Penton, Michael Sanders, Jamie Schaefer, Joey Shepard, Jeremiah Singletary, Gerald Watson and Brad Yanok all received honorable men-

Military Mention

PFC PURSER

Marine Pfc. Thomas Purser, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Purser III of 311 N. Main St., Picayune, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the 11-week training cycle, Purser was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills.

LT LADNER

Marine Lt. Merlin W. Ladner, son of Merlin C. and Mary E. Ladner of Route 3, Pass Christian, recently returned from a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Henry B. Wilson, homeported in San Diego.

During the cruise, he visited ports in the Republic of the Philippines, Singapore, United Arab Emirates, and Australia.

KIMBERLY COX

Human beings are the only animals that can blush. Mark Twain pointed out, we're the only animals that need to.

JOHN J. NECAISE

John Necaise is Star Student at BHS

John J. Necaise is the Bay Senior High School Star Student.

His selection was recently reported by the Mississippi Economic Council, which supports the Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) to encourage and promote academic achievement among Mississippi's high school seniors.

Star students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. American College Test scores and scholastic averages are considered in designation of the school's Star Student.

Necaise is a member of the National Honor Society, French Club and Varsity Quiz Bowl.

He plans to study pre-med at Millsaps College following graduation.

Necaise, 18, is the son of Mrs. Lois Rowley and the late Reno Joseph Necaise.

C.D. Galey of Hattiesburg, chairman of the STAR Committee said top scholars are being designated as Star Students in more than 300 participating schools in Mississippi.

"From these Star Students, the top 25 students in the state are selected and the Council awards scholarships to the state's top three Star Students and their Star Teachers," he added.

Funds for these scholarships are provided by the Phil Hardin Foundation of Meridian.

As Star Student, Necaise had to select the teacher who has made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement.

Necaise selected Joan Thomas.

Thomas is an American History teacher and has taught for 17 years. She is a 1970 graduate of Jackson State University and also attended William Carey College and the University of Southern Mississippi.

During the summer Thomas works with General Education Development students under the direction of the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency.

Both Necaise and Thomas will receive certificates from the Council, in addition to being eligible for competition for scholarship awards.

JOAN THOMAS

Stanislaus names co-valedictorians

Brother Paul Montero, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, announced that David Bourgeois and Louis Schuff have been named as co-valedictorians of the 133rd graduating class.

Commencement exercises will take place on Saturday, May 16 at 11 a.m. in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

DAVID BOURGEOIS

LOUIS SCHRUFF

Bourgeois, son of Mrs. Marcia Engelmam of Bay St. Louis, and Michael Bourgeois of Maplewood, N.J., is an alpha honor roll student.

He is a member of the National Honor Society and the French Honor Society and he is captain of the math and science team.

He is a National Merit finalist and was named the Star Student at St. Stanislaus.

He finished first in the state in mathematics and second in physics at the State Math and Science Tournament.

At the Xavier University Math and Science Olympiad, Bourgeois placed second overall in both physics and biology, and he placed third overall in the competition.

He finished in the top one percent in the state in physics at the Mississippi State University Physics Competition.

He is a member of the varsity tennis team.

He plans to study engineering at the California Institute of Technology.

Schuff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schuff of Pass Christian.

He is president of the St. Stanislaus Student Council; president of the National Honor Society; vice-president of the French Honor Society; and member of the math and science team.

He is a member of the varsity basketball and baseball team and he earned the Best Offensive Player award on the basketball team.

As an eighth grade student, Schuff won the Character Cup, the highest award given an eighth grade student.

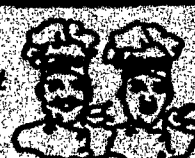

He is an alpha honor roll student, earned the English award as a junior, and he was named as an academic all-American.

He plans to study pre-med at the University of Mississippi.

Dear Expert:

I am interested in picking out my first set of lead crystal before I get married and would like some pointers.

S.A.S.

New Orleans, La.

Dear S.A.S.:

Let's start with the difference between crystal and glassware. Both are made with the same basic materials except that crystal has microscopic pieces of ground lead in it. This makes it heavier and more durable.

"Generally, a bride first picks out her china," says Joan Harrington, corporate bridal director for D. H. Holmes. "Then she decides on the stemware."

A traditional china selection calls for a traditional crystal design. A platinum or gold band on the china can be matched. Sometimes the purchaser will select tinted crystal to accent the colors of the place setting.

At The China Shop, Margaret Williamson not only advises the customers to actually set a place setting on a table in the store, she encourages them to bring in a sample of the dining room wallpaper and to consider their furniture style as well.

Joan notes that a good store's bridal consultant should be

by Nathan Chapman

So your vacation's here and you're heading for the beach? To help you know what to expect, here's some observations from someone who prefers the mountains:

Your Spot- The chewing gum and cigarette industries must be doing well from the looks of most beaches. But especially watch out for that weird gloopy syrup that you can never identify.

Suntan Oil- For some reason, suntan oil has to smell like a coconut drink that comes with a paper umbrella. I'm always afraid somebody on the beach will lick me. I'd like to invent some lotion that smells like boiled crawfish. Nobody would lick that.

Beach Towels- Why do they call them towels when they dry you off about as well as cardboard?

Sand- You can seal your shoes in an airtight plastic bag but sand will always find a way in. Before you put your shoes on, you can go to the edge of the water and dip each foot in to wash it off, then try to balance on the other as you put each shoe on. This generally succeeds

Elderly Walking Program Offered

Why are senior citizens walking hundreds of miles in North Shore Square? It's Elderwalk, a walking-for-exercise program specially designed for the elderly, offered free by North Shore Square and Pro-Age, a department of the Slidell Memorial Hospital.

Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday beginning at 8:30 a.m., men and women of at least 55 years of age can be seen exercising by walking through the smooth, climate-controlled mall. Although primarily created for the elderly, persons of any age are welcome to walk in North Shore Square and participate in this program. The participants pace themselves and are monitored by CPR-trained employees from the sports medicine department of the hospital.

Mileage is recorded so the exercisers will have a record of achievement. In fact, during the first year of the program, Elinore Bennette walked over 400 miles while two others, Josie Golembiewski and Natalie Powell, walked over 300. In all, 35 persons walked over 100 miles during the year.

According to Mary Seward, Director of Pro-Age, all

Your Rights as an Air Traveler

Although deregulation has made air travel cheaper, you are more likely to encounter irritating problems when you fly. You should know your consumer rights before you board.

Rules vary by airline, so ask to have each one's "contract of carriage" mailed to you so you can compare your rights as well as the ticket prices.

Flight delays- With delays at an all time high, avoid booking connecting flights too close together and reconfirm before you leave for the airport.

If your flight is delayed, ask about meals and phone calls. Some airlines do not provide amenities to stranded passengers. Others don't if the delay is due to something beyond their control.

Almost all airlines refuse to pay for financial losses which result from the delay. So, if you must attend a meeting or function, pick an earlier flight when you're planning your trip. Overbooking- Airlines regularly overbook because some passengers don't show up for each flight. (If you can't make a flight, notify the airline.)

Department of Transportation rules require that before bumping anyone, the

Coping with a Difficult Boss

At some time in your career, you're likely to work under a boss whose managerial style leaves you frustrated—and maybe even miserable.

Maybe nothing ever suits him. (This article will use the masculine pronoun, but certainly there are bad female bosses as well.) Maybe he takes all the credit. Perhaps he's a workaholic and expects you to be the same way. Or worst of all, maybe he's simply a bully who rules by intimidation.

Not only does a bad boss often reduce the effectiveness of his employees, he's usually harmful to their career progress.

What can you do if you have such a boss? First, realize that you have two major options: you can look for a new job, or you can try to wait out the situation in the hope that either you or he will eventually be moved to a new position.

If you decide to stay with the company, you need to make some objective assessments. Examine your boss' situation. Perhaps he is under pressure from his bosses, or peers who are competing for the next promotion. If this is true, let him know you understand his situation and want to help—but ask that he try to be considerate in his approach. Never whine or try to get sympathy from your boss. Avoid being confrontational, never let your fear or intimidation show.

If you are having more trouble with your supervisor than your co-workers are, you should recognize that the problem may be partly your own fault.

Here are some more tips to help you deal with a difficult boss:

- Find out exactly how your performance is going to be evaluated. If there is a printed evaluation form, try to get a copy. Ask other employees what happened during their formal evaluations.
- Be a team player. Don't be too eager to point out your boss' mistakes. Don't try to upstage him even if you did all the work: the truth about your efforts will get around. If you criticize your boss to others, word will someday reach him.
- What are your boss' priorities? Maybe you're not concentrating on the tasks he finds most important. If you're

- Learn about his style. Pay attention so you can gauge where he puts the most emphasis in his own work. Find out if he puts a higher value on speed or perfection.
- How does he like information delivered? Does he like oral or written reports? Should you do an executive summary? How much detail does he want?
- When you have to deliver bad news, be ready with a list of possible solutions and ideas.
- Keep a notebook of your achievements. Write down the projects which you successfully completed. If problems developed on a project, write down the honest reasons for the trouble.
- Don't get upset when you don't receive praise. Take your own pride in your work.
- It may help to give him everything in writing for verification and his clarification, including your understanding of his directions and a summary of any meetings that you have with him.
- If he becomes unreasonably upset, think of him as a child having a tantrum. This may help you maintain your cool.

Finally, ask your co-workers for advice and tips on how they do things. But don't say or ask anything that would be embarrassing if it got back to the you-know-who.

knowledgeable and helpful in making the selection. They should ask the customer about lifestyle in order to recommend which pieces to buy. For example, perhaps ice tea glasses would be more appropriate than wine glasses.

And since many young women have a limited budget, the consultant should point out which pieces could be used for either a beverage or dessert.

 in getting wet sand in your shoes.
Shells- Part of the fun of going to the beach is collecting shells. If you put one next to your ear, it will sound like the ocean. This activity is pretty dumb since you can listen to the real ocean right next to you.
The Ocean- Whatever you do, never go in the water. Forget about sharks, they're scared away by the thousands of stinging jellyfish with toe fetishes that lurk in shallow water. You can't see them, but they're there.
Sand Castles- You've probably seen a thousand sand castles, but where are the little sand Queen Elizabeths and Princess Di's?
Beach Towns- You had to take a vacation to find a town full of tacky tee-shirt shops? Please don't buy a "Life is a beach" shirt. Let's see if we can drive the manufacturers out of business.
Going Home- It's fun to let your friends wonder if your redness is from sunburn or embarrassment over your peeling.

participants must first be certified as fit by a physician. She notes that Pro-Age also conducts Eldercise, a medically approved conditioning exercise program, at the Slidell Memorial Hospital at 10:30 a.m. on Mondays and Thursdays.

But to properly exercise in the Elderwalk program, the elderly need to have suitable footwear. If not, Joe Snell, manager of Kinney Shoes at North Shore Square, notes that the exercisers could possibly develop fallen arches, aching calves, muscle spasms, and shin and heel splints. "They may not feel it until they sit down that night," he says.

Rick Aldridge, manager of The Footlocker at the mall, agrees. He recommends a small investment in a pair of walking or jogging shoes, explaining they should be lightweight, flexible, well cushioned, and should have a slightly elevated heel for a natural rolling motion to the ball of the foot.

Also adding caution is the manager of Smith Brothers Sporting Goods. "Elderly heels are more fragile. They need to watch what they're walking in," says Herman Smith.

And to measure your level of fitness, Gryder Shoes at North Shore Square is giving away copies of the Rockport Fitness Walking Test.

To sign up for Elderwalk or Eldercise, call Mary Seward at 643-2200, extension 226.

But before volunteering, find out when the next flight on which you can get a confirmed seat is and whether the airline will provide meals, phone calls, or hotel rooms.

If the airline bumps you because of a lack of volunteers, they are required to give you a statement of your rights. For domestic flights, if the carrier can get you to your destination within an hour of your scheduled arrival, no compensation is required. If between one and two hours, it must pay you an amount equal to your one-way fare, with a $200 maximum. If your arrival is delayed more than two hours, compensation is twice the one-way fare, $400 maximum.

You can try to negotiate a higher settlement with their complaint department or you can sue the airline, but you usually lose your right to more money if you cash the check they offer you. And don't argue with a harried check-in employee—save your complaint for a letter to the airline's consumer relations director.

But no compensation for overbooking is required if you are bumped because the airline substituted a smaller plane, if you arrived later than the check-in deadline, or if the plane seats 60 or fewer.

If a passenger has a complaint, "they should write directly to the airline's customer service department," says David Czernik, executive director of the Louisiana Consumers League. "Then they can go to the Department of Transportation, but if they did that first, they'd be sent back to the airline."

Include all the facts, your address and day phone number, and copies (never originals) of tickets and receipts. Say what you expect the airline to do, such as an amount of compensation or an apology from a rude employee.

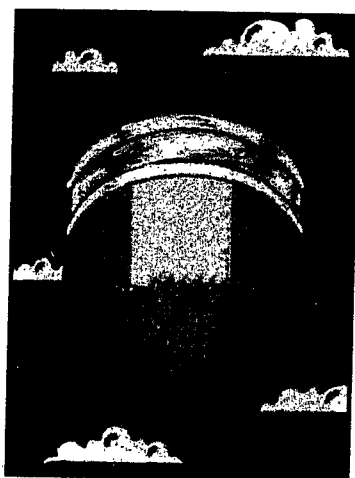

To contact the Department of Transportation, write Office of Consumer Affairs, D.O.T., 400 7th St., S.W., Rm. 10405,
